FACTSinnated Podcast - Unity Consortium's myth busting podcast

We bring you into honest conversations to guide decisions behind adolescent and young adult vaccination. Each episode features doctors, researchers, advocates, and the young people living these choices, talking candidly about trust, misinformation, and communication — not just the science. Real conversations to help you cut through the noise and make confident decisions.

Adolescent Immunization Action Week (AIAW)

AIAW is a dedicated week in April focused on raising awareness about the importance of recommended vaccinations for adolescents and young adults. Through education, advocacy, and youth-centered conversations, AIAW brings communities together to promote vaccine confidence and help young people stay up to date on their immunizations.

Back to School Campaign

Start the School Year with Vaccine Smart Energy. Unity's Back-to-School Campaign encourages adolescents, young adults, families, and communities to make vaccination part of their back-to-school routine and start the school year protected.
